DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC # 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Greenberg in view of Debski, along with Zakrzewski.

Greenberg discloses in figures 1 an exercising jacket that substantially anticipates a device for massaging comprising a garment 10, a plurality of interior pockets (28, 30), a plurality of pockets (32, 34, 36 and 38), located on the back of the garment and a storage compartment 24. However, Greenberg does not disclose a plurality of horizontal compartments located on the back of the garment, the chambers being formed by layers joined to one another with a plurality of parallel seams. Debski teaches in figure 2 an exercising vest comprising a plurality of horizontal compartment 17 that are formed of layers (12, 13) and separated by parallel seams 15. The compartments are located from the top to the bottom of the back of the garment. The garment is a vest. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made that the horizontal compartment extending from the top to the bottom of the back of the garment as taught by Debski could be substituted for the compartments in the back of the garment disclosed by Greenberg in order to be able to have massage devices in compartments that extend along the entire length of the user's back. The compartments would be made of two layers and separated by parallel seams as taught by Debski. Although applicant has not claimed the compartment open, they could be open as taught by Zakrzewski.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed July 15, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the prior art fails to teach or suggest massage tools. However, Applicant never positively claims massage tools. Applicant simply claims that massage tools can be placed in the compartments. Applicant argues that the massage tools are placed into horizontal compartments. Greenbreg discloses a garment. Debski teaches making the compartments horizontal. Applicant argues that the prior art doesn't disclose any massage applications. However, structurally speaking, Applicant has only claimed a garment that can be used with a massaging tool. On the other hand the combination of a garment and massaging tools has not been claimed. Thus, no patentable weight was given to what is stored in the compartments.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
